HE HAS JURISDICTION.

Judge Foster Decides That He Can Hear Part

OF THE INJUNCTION PROCEEDINGS

So Far as Resident Stockholders Are Concerned—Case Against Non-Resident Defendants Discussed.

In the United States court this morning, Judge C. G. Foster decided that the injunction proceedings brought against the Santa Fe stockholders to prevent them from holding an election except by a cumulative ballot, must be dismissed as to the non-resident defendants, but that the injunction must hold as to the Kansas defendants.

The court room was filled with interested spectators when Judge Foster opened court and asked that one of the stenographers present furnish the clerk with a copy of his decision to be filed, as a part of the court record.

Judge Foster said that this comes under the act of 1888, defining the district in which a suit may be brought, and in accordance with that act the suit may be brought either in the district where the plaintiff resides or in the district where the defendants reside.

The motion to dismiss the injunction proceedings was then ordered dismissed as to the non-resident defendants, B. I. Cheney of Massachusetts; James A. Blair of New York, and D. B. Robinson of Illinois, they being the only non-resident stockholders who had been served with processes of the court.

Judge Foster then announced that, as far as the Kansas defendants, C. K. Holiday, C. S. Gledhill, E. W. Hollister and L. S. Eddy, are concerned, the injunction must hold, and it was so ordered.

The attorneys for the defendants then asked for an extension of time until 2 p. m., that they might amend the evidence they wished to file, before proceeding with the argument of the case on its merits. They said it was necessary to amend their evidence on account of the decision of the court to which they wished to conform.

General Tracy said he was opposed to any dilatory proceedings, but the adjournment to 2 p. m. was finally consented to.

It is understood that the attorneys for the defendants will this afternoon enter more objections to the injunction case, which will then be tried on its merits.

If on the conclusion of the trial of this case the injunction is made permanent, as far as the Kansas defendants are concerned, the non-resident defendants will then be able to proceed with the annual meeting and elect a new board of directors without using the cumulative voting system unless they are stopped by some further proceedings.

Director C. S. Gledhill said: "If the Kansas defendants are shut out of the annual meeting, or at least restrained from voting for directors, it will lose the directors' ticket but 300 votes, as there is not to exceed that many shares of stock held by Kansas people in such a way as they may be voted in the annual meeting. Colonel C. K. Holiday, who is the largest Kansas stockholder, now votes but about 200 shares."

IT HASTENS THE END.

The Chicago Tribune Says the Santa Fe Controversy Is Settled.

The Chicago Tribune has this to say regarding the Santa Fe fight, which is in progress before Judge Foster:

No matter what the result of the legal battle between the Atchison directors or reorganization committee and the protective committee may be, it is considered quite certain the present board of directors will continue to hold the fort. Should the court at Topeka decide that the directors must be elected by a cumulative vote, an appeal will undoubtedly be taken by the reorganization committee to the United States supreme court, and pending a decision from the latter tribunal the present board of directors will stick to their positions.

As it may take a year or two before a decision is rendered in the supreme court the road may be foreclosed before a new board of directors can be elected. The fight now being waged between the contending factions, it is believed, will prevent a reorganization without foreclosure proceedings, and in such an event all the stock is sure to be wiped out of existence and the second mortgage bondholders will be lucky if they get anything.

The desperate efforts that are being made by the "protectives" to gain representation on the board is said to be due to their belief that irregularities were practiced under the Manuel-Magoun management far more serious than revealed by Expert Little's report, and that it is their desire to sift these things to the bottom.

SNAP SHOTS AT HOME NEWS.

We've heard so much of Santa Fe that most of us would really be glad when December comes because we'll hear something of Santa Claus.

There was absolutely a little snow this morning.

Four football players have withdrawn from the team of the Topeka Athletic association. They were not members of the association but were given its privileges for playing.

BREIDENTHAL'S VIEW.

Says He Feels Absolutely Certain Populists Will Win.

HE CLAIMS SIX CONGRESSMEN.

Also Assures a Reporter That Seventy-two Members of the Legislature Are Assured.

Chairman Breidenthal of the Populist state central committee said today that he is absolutely certain that the Populist state ticket will be elected, although he is not able to accurately estimate the majority the ticket will secure, as his last poll of the state is not yet completed. He claims his party will elect six out of the eight congressmen to be chosen, and although he will not name the six, it is understood they are Solomon, fusion candidate in the First; Botkin in the Third; Davis in the Fifth; Baker in the Sixth; Simpson in the Seventh, and Harris at large.

In addition to this he says seventy-two members of the legislature to be elected will be Populists, which will give the party a majority on joint ballot and control the election of a United States senator.

HENDERSON FIZZLED OUT
And "General" Artz Talked to the Anti-Administration Kickers.

The initiative and referendum meeting advertised to be held at the court house last night was a fizzle, and the fifty men who braved the storm to hear Ben S. Henderson give the record of the state administration, were disappointed, for Henderson was not there. The only one of the speakers advertised present, was W. H. Bennington.

Ex-Adjutant General Artz was there, but he came as a listener. Bennington called the meeting to order, and said that the speakers advertised were not present, "but," continued he, "we have with us a very eloquent gentleman whom you all know. We will hear from Gen. Artz."

Gen. Artz said: "I do not see why I should be called upon because I do not belong to this crowd, but I can give these fellows a few pointers. If I were in their place I would advertise to make an administration speech, and then I would get the crowd I wanted to talk to, and after I got the crowd, I would have some one in the audience ask me a question about the state house crowd, and then I would open up."

"I am a little afraid to say anything because I understand that when these folks held a meeting at Lawrence, they were treated to a shower of eggs, and I don't care for anything of that kind tonight."

W. H. Bennington said that it was useless to make a speech, because no one was present that needed conversion. He then adjourned the meeting, and said he hoped to hold another with better success soon.

REPUBLICAN FIRST.

That Ticket Will Have First Place on the Official Ballot in Shawnee County.

The position of the various tickets on the official ballot according to the law is left with the county clerks and they will vary in position as the politics of those officers varies.

In Shawnee county County Clerk McCabe has made the arrangement in the following order: Republican, Democrat, People's Party, Prohibition. The time for the candidates to withdraw closed Saturday evening and no notices were received to the names of the persons nominated by all parties in Shawnee county will be printed on the tickets without change.

VOTES OR PLURALITY?

A Letter to Dr. Dykes Promising "3,000" at Leavenworth.

A letter from a Leavenworth Democrat written yesterday to Dr. H. A. Dykes, in regard to the position of the Democrats of Leavenworth county, contains the following: "You need not fear but that the Democrats of this city and county will be heard from when the votes are counted and they will be on the right side."

"We know that there is no earthly show to elect our ticket, and we further know where our next best friends are. So you can rest assured that myself and Democratic friends are doing and will continue to do all we can for Lewelling and his state ticket."

"Leavenworth city and county will give Lewelling and his ticket 2,500 to 3,000."

AT THE TOPEKA THEATER.

Robert Parkinson, the Eccentric Comedian is Performing.

There is a better comedian at the Crawford than usual this week. Robert Parkinson is eccentric enough in his comedy to be with a better show. The play last night was the "Two Americans," and Mr. Parkinson as Sammy Green, the badly mixed young man, was a surprise. The scene of the play is laid in Brazil. Josie Martin as Mad Polli and E. L. Connor as Tom Holdfast, were the best among the support.

The managers of the company will try a new departure this evening. They are strangers but have confidence in their company and say that if people will see them, once they will see them again. For this reason the entire balcony will be open to the ladies tonight without restrictions of any kind whatever. The play tonight will be "A Woman's Peril," a comedy in four acts.

What's the use of wasting time with inferior cooking materials? Dr. Price's Baking Powder saves time and money.

THE DOUBT FAMILY HAPPY.

They Have Secured an Engagement and Gone On.

The troubles of the much out of luck "musical Doubt Family," which was billed to play three nights at the Crawford last week and had the house closed on them by the management the second night, are at an end for a time at least.

The story of the family was printed in the JOURNAL Saturday. How they were comfortably fixed at their home at Beatrice, Nebraska, how they gave amateur entertainments about the country at the request of different charitable societies and were applauded by their admiring friends until they conceived an idea that they could go "on the road" and capture the world. There were five of the women and four of the men and they all played some things passably well. They determined on a grand triumphal tour and immediately had some "struck," and began to look as though the "most numerous musical aggregation the world had ever seen."

They were soon in hard circumstances, and finally Mrs. Doubt was compelled to pawn her watch. The money derived from that was soon gone and the company was about "broke" when it reached Topeka. It played to poor business here on Friday night, and as the house was closed against them the next, they were thrown on the tender mercies of the Topeka public without a cent; additional victims of the stage craze.

Women like, the female members of the company, all of the family are admirably suited out and made a diligent search for work. Mrs. Doubt made application for several positions as a school teacher and the girls looked for clerkships. They were unsuccessful and there were tears shed. The men had been looking for work, too, and it began to look as though the unfortunate Doubt family was irretrievably stranded.

The JOURNAL's story of Saturday went to Junction City and brought back an "angel." Sunday W. J. Smart, of Smart's Comedy Company, came here and closed a contract with the family to hold up the musical end of his entertainments.

There was joy in the Doubt family. They paid their bills and went on their way rejoicing.

The company opened a week's engagement at Junction City last night and is said to be doing well.

A hard times social was given last night at the K. of P. hall by the Rathbuns sisters.
